

Disclaimer:

The Ecsplorable Project is an intentionally vulnerable virtual machine created solely for educational purposes, ethical hacking training, and cybersecurity research in controlled environments. The creator of this project explicitly states the following:

1. Intended Use

- The project is designed for use in isolated, secure environments such as virtual labs.
- It must not be used on public networks or connected to any systems containing sensitive or real-world data.

2. No Liability

- The creator of this project assumes no responsibility or liability for any misuse of this virtual machine.
- Any damage, unauthorized access, or breaches caused directly or indirectly by this project is solely the user's responsibility.

3. Ethical Use

- Users are expected to use this project in compliance with ethical hacking principles and relevant laws.
- Any illegal or unethical use of the Ecsplorable Project is strictly prohibited and not endorsed by the creator.

4. No Warranty

- The project is provided "as is" without any guarantees or warranties of any kind.
- The creator does not guarantee that the vulnerabilities within the VM will function as intended in all environments.

5. Awareness and Acceptance

- By downloading, using, or interacting with the Ecsplorable Project, users agree to accept full responsibility for their actions and the associated risks.